INGREDIENTS

Fennel Silk: Often mistaken for spider's web, this white, web-like plant grows amongst frigid and dark environments. It uses sharp hooked tendrils to help secure the edges of the plant near rocks or plants. It is believed ingesting these give people the ability to hook onto the smallest details

Luminous Cap Dust: This powder can be shook from glowing fellow mushrooms often found in extremely dark environments. its ember-like glow is said to calm the human mind, achieving a transient state for reverse engineering.

Amanita Cap: This large mushroom is often found growing in clusters near bodies of water. Known for its ability to re-grow its cap over and over again, eating this resilient fungus grants a person undying will to complete a challenge, no matter the difficulties.

Gengko Brush Hair: Perhaps the most difficult to obtain, the brush used by the legendary Genko race. This brush embodies their creativity, akin to the soul of these creatures constantly seeking artistic evolution. A single hair from a Genko's brush bestows upon a person unlimited creativity, approaching reverse engineering from a variety of perspectives.
